The Trans Canada Trail is Canada's national trail linking communities from coast to coast. One can find a trail locator to find the part nearest you by going to www.tctrail.ca. The Zoological Society of Montreal has its name permanently placed in a trail pavilion in Quebec (10) and the names of past members Donna Seager and Jack Fee are also placed in memoriam on the trail.

Tonight, Richard Senecal, who has been working for the Trans Canada Trail since 1999, will speak about the Quebec section of the trail. Mr. Senecal is presently the Executive Director of the Conseil Quebécoise de Sentier Transcanadien. He is a father, grandfather, and passionate about his family, outdoor activities, sport and culture.
